Dear Olaf.

As a follow-on from my message of the other night, I want to take (burn, really) a few moments of your time discussing the usual thing that the Arab world is always wasting our time with: terrorism.

Muslims are the most worthless narcissists on planet Earth, bar none. They are even worse than Americans. Part of the problem is that their religiosity, and their elite's incorrect perception of the meaning of their beliefs in the west to Western people, creates many situations in which terrorist acts that are meant to have great symbolic meaning and invoke a perception of God in the acts of their people, simply fall flat and mean nothing to anyone except for those of us who have no choice but to dispassionately discuss and analyze them in private.

To that end, I made a number of reports to German authorities recently. I live in Germany for political asylum and, in the process, have become acquainted with many more of these uselsss Arab filth than I would ever have desired to. Your people seemingly adore them: they provide a multiplier of orders of magnitude for the filth that your own lower classes create. You also hire (but never fire, seemingly) them far more often than you should. Nowhere is this more clear than in the BAMF, which is now totally filled to the brim with lazy, incoherent, criminal Arab peasants. And back in August, one of these Arab criminal peasants working at the BAMF stole a claw hammer from me that had been confiscated from my briefcase as I was entering a government building for my first asylum interview - my usual self-defense weapon, which during its time with me only saw brief service in the disassembly of a broken bedframe at the Patrick Henry Village asylum center.

Subsequently, I was transferred twice - first to the center in Freiburg im Breisgau, where the Arab peasants you love so dearly broke into my car and stole my briefcase, and later destroyed my bicycle, and then to a smaller location on the outskirts of [REDACTED] in [REDACTED] which was, unsurprisingly, also filled with Arab criminals. Because I felt threatened by having to live around these people, so many of whom were fleeing nothing but the police in their home countries, and particularly by one particular criminal peasant on my floor, an Afghan named Alizada Taweedullah, I decided to buy a new self-defense weapon, a machete, on Amazon.

As you know, the BAMF, and even the worst Arab nigger trash in the BAMF, apparently, are given access to sensitive surveillance data on people like myself - including the fact that I had entirely legally ordered a machete to replace my claw hammer that your BAMF niggers had stolen. It was almost immediately after my new machete arrived that NiggerNet murders began in earnest. First, an Arab criminal peasant stabbed a Belgian police officer in the neck, leaving him to bleed out in front of the Gare du Nord in Brussels. Then, just 36 hours or so after some of the Muslim teenage girls in my building came to my door to introduce themselves, another Arab criminal peasant in Illerkirchberg carried out a brutal knife attack on two teenage girls of the same age.

The Arab elite want you to think of their people as primal, natural humans acting on the will of God: waves crashing on the beach, flocks of birds moving to and fro, influenced only by instinct and wind currents. But we know that isn't entirely the case. The Arab peasants are indeed impulsive zombies, often reflecting things far away of which they have no knowledge, which is why I call them "NiggerNets", like neural nets, only, well, with these stupid black-assed Muslims instead. Smartphones, nevertheless, have totally changed the nature of the Arab world, a technology they themselves could never, ever have built. Many of the young men are addicted to their smartphones, gaming and talking to each other constantly. And that is part of the problem with the Illerkirchberg attack: it was the Muslim NiggerNet's second artificial reflection of my machete purchase, and simultaneously, an artificial reflection of the teenage girls' visit to me, as witnessed by Alizada Taweedullah, the crazy Afghan across the hall.

Now, as I reported to police and prosecutors at the time, and as you can read in those reports, which I have attached for your reference, this is not the first time that Arab Nigger-Men have attacked someone in connection with a Muslim woman wanting to talk to me. It is disturbing: these men do not belong in civilized societies. That their women want to get away from them is completely understandable. But even that is not the whole of the issue, because the next thing that the crazy nigger Afghan across the hall did was to poison some food in my refrigerator on the same day that American journalist Grant Wahl died in Qatar from a pulmonary embolism that had been aggravated by bronchitis, induced by repeated apparent poisonings with the same substance. How did the crazy nigger Afghan get a key to my room, well, the Hausmeister appears to have given it to him. And why is that - well, I can't answer to that, but I suspect it has quite a lot to do with the many bizarre worlds one must live in when one is connected to the absolute cesspit that is German intelligence.

And so what I made clear to these people is - if I catch any of the Muslim niggers in my room the machete comes out. Meanwhile, I set up a video camera for security whenever I am out. And this information appears to have been passed to him also. How did that happen? Well, it must have occurred at quite an high level of IT surveillance. To know that my computer, which runs a very secure operating system - a new version of BSD - had downloaded and installed a webcam package is not something easy to ascertain. Yet someone did it, and leaked that information to this worthless criminal Afghan.

So the workings of your government with respect to these useless criminal Muslims are clear, however nonsensical they may be. While living in Belgium, I worked a number of temporary labor jobs - in a steel mill, a DHL hub, a couple of warehouses, etc. Working with Arabs taught me one thing: Arabs are very physically and mentally weak people. Many are also even effeminate. They are lazy and stupid and they are afraid of having anyone near them who is not similarly lazy and stupid. That is, believe it or not, the reason why the Arabs are usually armed. They cannot win a fight with even just one serious white man without bombs and knives and guns. What you are doing with these people is actually adverse-selected genocide: you, and other Western governments, are taking a population that should experience severe resource constraints on its reproduction, and allowing them to experience no constraints at all. In effect, you have created an invasive species that destroys everything in its vicinity, displacing the native population.

There is a Muslim criminal to whom the German government under the government of Angela Merkel, who as I understand it is some sort of deluded lesbian from an East German slum, offered asylum to: Zelimkhan Khangoshvili. He was apparently just another Arab criminal from a shithole, who played both sides of the table for personal benefit in multitudes of acts of terror like I describe above. And so the security of a government responsible for dealing with him, decided to deal with him appropriately, by killing him - just the way German soliders would have done in any of the many joint US-UK military activities abroad intended to deal with terrorism. But your police, who are too corrupt to have dealt with him appropriately, and your BAMF, who are too corrupt to have denied asylum to him, all refused to do their jobs. Every single one. And now you have a man in prison who did your government the immense favor of having killed this stupid terrorist criminal peasant- Vadim Krasikov. This man does not belong in prison. He's no different than any of your police officers. Perhaps a little bit less gay, but otherwise - no different.

And there are prisoner exchanges being proposed - involving Paul Whelan, for example, a man imprisoned in Russia who holds an European Union passport from Ireland. These are propositions that you should take advantage of. Your government is falling apart, your people in government agencies will barely even acknowledge German laws any longer. For the press to even discuss Krasikov thoroughly - which is their right, and their mandate, to do - means to reveal all of these problems I have discussed above. One German teenage girl is dead, another recovering from extremely serious injuries, all because of one incident instigated by a man like Zelimkhan Khangoshvili. What was Khangoshvili guilty of? Well, the reason it's not in the press is that the Russian government has learned that there are very real and serious economic punishments for revealing information about institutionalized criminality in the West - such as that being committed right now by the BAMF against the German people. And your government sees no other way to deal with that than to symbolically arrest an elderly, possibly even senile German nobleman with a pile of crossbows accumulated at his countryside lodge as a way to deflect the blame for just a little while longer. Pathetic.

You're a joke, Olaf. A total fucking joke of a man from a total fucking joke of a place that nevertheless still understood why its citizens had to live in poverty. You don't get it, unfortunately, and someone finally had to tell you. Stop kicking the can down the road. Let the Russian policeman out of prison and send an Irishman home. It's not so hard to do, and the blood of two German teenage girls and a Belgian policeman is on your hands. Just fix it, before you're asked to resign.
